National Defense Education Act To Provide Money For Study

by Ed McGee

St. Joseph's college has applied for a loan under the National Defense Education Act of 1958, recently passed by Congress.

This act provides for loans to college students, and cash grants for graduate study. Provisions are also made for a testing, guidance, and counseling program, and for remodeling of laboratories or purchase of special equipment for science, math, or foreign languages.

3 Requisites at St. Joe

The sum of $174,357,000 has been allotted to the higher institutions of the State of Indiana for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1959. This has to be divided among the schools as per requests and enrollment figures relative to the whole state. This amount is for student loans. Similar amounts are allotted for the other provisions of the act.

The law is designed to aid students who want to teach or who show aptitude in science, math, or a foreign language. At St. Joe, however, the loans will be made available to any student fulfilling these three qualifications: he must be in need of the sum to finish his education; he must be capable of maintaining good grades; he must be a full-time student.

Forgiveness Feature

These loans are of a 10-year, three per cent nature. No student will receive more than $1000 per year or a total of $5000. Repayment is to begin one year after the borrower leaves college. Repayment will be delayed, however, if the student continues in graduate study or goes into the Armed Forces of the United States.

The act has a forgiveness feature that cancels up to 50 per cent of the loan at a rate of 10 per cent a year for the first five years if the borrower teaches in a public elementary or secondary school. The forgiveness feature, as of now, is not provided for those who will teach in private institutions.

$400 for Dependents

A fellowship program is also included in this act. One thousand fellowships are allotted for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1959. For each of the following three years 1500 are allowed. These offer cash awards up to three years of graduate study. They offer $2000 the first year, $2200 the second year, and $2400 the third year, all plus $400 a year for each dependent.

The institutions who apply for the loan program are to contribute not less than one-ninth of the Federal assistance. These institutions are also to collect the loans and interest.

Allotment Increases Annually

The machinery and school policy of St. Joseph's regarding the loan has not yet been fully organized. No applications need be made now. The administration will give due notice when this aid may be applied for. Full particulars will then be explained.

The sum of $47,500,000 is allowed for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1959. For the next three years this amount will increase until the fiscal year ending June 30, 1962 when $90,000,000 is allotted. Such sums for the next four fiscal years will be allotted as may be necessary to enable students who have received a loan prior to July 1, 1962 to continue or complete their education.

Interest In New Act

This act is designed for the fullest development of the mental resources and technical skills of the nation's young men and women, necessary for the security of the nation.

This bill will be looked upon with great interest to see if it fulfills a need or whether scholarships should be included. Any scholarships then added would add to the 300,000 now available through universities, industry, and private institutions.

Split Homecoming To Feature Paul King, Bobby Christian

The first dance of the split 1958 Homecoming celebration will be held in the Raleigh Hall on Saturday, Oct. 18. This dance will be exclusively for seniors and alumni.

Paul King and his Kingtet of Chicago will provide the music for the expected crowd of 350 seniors and alumni. The theme of the dance will probably be in a rustic and fraternity vein.

Fr. Lefko Represents Alumni

The Homecoming dance will begin at 8:00 p.m. and conclude around 1:00 a.m. The festivities will open on Saturday morning at 10:00 a.m. when the seniors and alumni will register in Raleigh hall. The traditional Homecoming football game will start at 1:30 p.m. with the Indiana State Sycamores providing this year's opposition.

Senior class president Joe Gurgone is the chairman of the Homecoming committee. Representing the St. Joe alumni will be Fr. John Lefko, secretary-treasurer of the Alumni Association.

200 Couples at Nov. 1 Dance

Bobby Christian and his orchestra, who played at the 1956 Homecoming, will highlight the second dance for juniors, sophomores and freshmen two weeks later on Saturday, Nov. 1.

Nearly 200 couples are expected for this dance which will be known as "The Tower Dance." The dance will last from 9:00 p.m. until midnight, followed by revels until 2:00 a.m.

"Fascination" Theme

Sophomore class president Larry Kelly is serving as chairman of the arranging committee for the dance. The committee has not decided on a theme for the dance but committee chairman Kelly says that "it will be on the order of Fascination."

A limited number of tickets will go on sale at $4 per couple in the near future. In the afternoon the St. Joe eleven will take on the Cardinals of Ball State.

Summer Study For SJ Profs

by Ron Metter

What do college teachers do during the summer? As one might expect, most of the prof's summer activities are connected with education. This past summer was no exception for many of St. Joe's faculty.

Fr. Donald Shea, assistant professor of history, attended the Graduate school at Harvard where he took specialized courses in contemporary Russian and later Medieval history. He also attended a special seminar on methods of teaching college history.

Fr. Seigrist Gets Ph.D.

Sr. Anthonita, also of the history department, attended Georgetown university where she studied the Modern Near East.

Fr. Joseph Otte, associate professor of history, attended the University of Chicago where he studied the history of the church.

LATE NEWS

Notice has just been received from the office of President Raphael H. Gross that the Honorable Arthur Summerfield, Postmaster General of the United States, together with the Honorable Charles Halleck, Congressman from Rensselaer and member of the college Board of Lay Trustees, will be visitors at St. Joe on Thursday, Oct. 30.

Postmaster Sommerfield and Congressman Halleck will inspect and dedicate the newly remodeled Collegeville post office. Fr. John Lefko, treasurer of the college is chairman of a special faculty arrangements committee appointed by Fr. Gross.

Fr. Gross stated that, to the best of his knowledge, this is the first time that a member of the Cabinet has visited St. Joseph's. Further details will be forthcoming in the next issue of STUFF.

1959 Danforth Grants Open To Seniors

The Rev. Raphael H. Gross, president of St. Joseph's college, has named Fr. Edward A. Maziarz, academic dean of the college, as the Liaison Officer to nominate to the Danforth foundation two or not to exceed three candidates for the 1959 Danforth Fellowships.

To qualify for a Danforth Fellowship all candidates must meet the following requirements of the Foundation: outstanding academic ability, personality congenial to the classroom and integrity and character, including serious inquiry within the Christian tradition.

Maximum Grant of $1400

The Danforth Foundation, an educational foundation located in St. Louis, Mo., welcomes applicants from the areas of Natural and Biological Sciences, Social Sciences, Humanities and all fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate college.

The maximum annual grant for single Fellows is $1400 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students; for married Fellows, $1900 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students with an additional stipend of $350 for each child.

Concurrent Fellowships

A Danforth Fellow is allowed to carry other scholarship appointments concurrently with his Danforth Fellowship, and applicants are invited to apply at the same time for Danforth Fellowship as other ones.

If a man received the Danforth Appointment together other fellowships or scholarships, he becomes a Danforth Fellow without stipend, until these other relationships are completed.

Contact Fr Maziarz

All Danforth Fellows will participate in the annual Danforth Foundation Conference on Teaching to be held at Camp Miniwanna in Michigan next September, 1959. Students with or without financial need are invited to apply. All applications, including the recommendations, must be completed by January 31, 1959. Any student wishing further information should get in touch with Fr. Maziarz.

Richard Dyer-Bennet To Open Concert Series

On Thursday, Oct. 16 the famed ballad and folk song singer, Richard Dyer-Bennet, once again will perform for St. Joe's students in the first concert of the new school year.

In the last 15 years Mr. Dyer-Bennet has appeared in approximately 250 concerts, and has also done a great deal of night club work. Along with this, he has recorded many albums of his folk songs.

Learns From Swedish Singer

He is a native of Great Britain, born in England in 1913. He was reared and schooled in Canada, the United States and Germany, studying English and music at the University of California from 1932 to 1935.

In the summer of 1935 Richard Dyer-Bennet went to Sweden to meet and hear Sven Scholander, one of the greatest folk singers of his time in Europe. Mr. Dyer-Bennet admittedly has been greatly influenced by this man and has developed a similar approach to the art of song.

Encore At Collegeville

In 1944 Mr. Dyer-Bennet brought in the guitar to enhance his musical repertoire.

Mr. Dyer-Bennet will be appearing again mainly due to the very favorable reaction to his last visit. This is not surprising, since Richard Dyer-Bennet is undoubtedly one of the finest folk singers in the country.

Stuff To Give Merit Award To Outstanding SJ Club

Stuff will inaugurate an annual award program to honor the outstanding club on the St. Joseph's campus. Beginning with the present school year, the "Stuff Annual Achievement Award to the Club Which Has Contributed Most to the Welfare of Its Members" will offer a cash prize of $50 to the honored club.

The award will be presented during the special Parents' Day ceremonies next May. All 23 campus clubs will be eligible for the award.

3 Students to Judge

Two criteria in judging the top club will be: (1) The improvement that club has shown over the previous year; and (2) The enthusiasm evidenced in the club's activities.

Enrollment Shows Increase of 95

This year's St. Joseph enrollment of 996 students has surpassed last year's record 901 by 95, according to the latest figures released by Fr. Charles Robbins, registrar of the college.

The freshman class leads the list with 406, which represents 40 per cent of the student body. The sophomores follow with 261, while the juniors have 174 and the seniors 146. Also included in the total enrollment are nine special students.

The 1958-59 student body represents 25 states and six foreign countries, Korea, Nigeria, Vietnam, Guam, Bolivia and Canada. As per usual the Chicago and the Lake County area of Indiana have sent the largest delegation of students to St. Joe this year.

Other figures show that the number of Vets has decreased from 76 to 72, while the number

A three-man committee consisting of Inter-club chairman Mark Doorley, Marty Bena, Student Council President, and Greg Mahoney, copy Editor of Stuff, will pick the winner sometime before Parents' Day.

Other Considerations Also

Two faculty members will make their recommendations on what they each believe to be the top three clubs to give the committee an additional criterion upon which to base its decision. The final decision, however, will rest entirely in the hands of the committee.

The committee will also base its judgment on (1) An examination of each club's constitution and an evaluation of the club's adherence to that constitution; (2) Year-end summary reports from the clubs on their activities; (3) A review of the Club Column in all the issues of the year's Stuff.

A majority vote by the committee will decide the winning club.

of day students has also dropped to 64, a decrease of 16 over last year. There are 42 married students as compared to 48 last year.

Collegeville

Here To Stay

Recent changes in the Post Office and the removal of the Collegeville road sign on Highway 53 have raised several questions as to the exact status of the Collegeville community.

As is probably known, the once independent Collegeville Post Office no longer enjoys its position of separate maintenance.

The relegation of the Collegeville Post Office to the status of a Rensselaer sub-station is coincident with a number of similar changes by the U.S. Post Office Department throughout the country.

One of the most important reasons to effect this change resulted from Collegeville's lack of a qualified postmaster to handle the mail of its 1000-plus residents. The U.S. Post Office Department requires that a postmaster be a resident of the town or community in which he works. Hence, the change to a Rensselaer sub-station.

Collegeville has never been incorporated and officially declared an independent sovereign community, and as a result had little to say in the realignment of its postal system.

The residents of Collegeville should not be disgruntled over the loss of their own Post Office, however, because as such this does not effect the retention of the name Collegeville, which has been associated with the college and its residents for 68 years.

The answer then to the question: "Is there or is there not a Collegeville since the change in the Post Office set-up?" is definitely affirmative.

Just as they say "there will always be an England" so also there will always be a Collegeville, unless another tornado or other sundry elements of nature and man decide to obliterate it from the face of the earth.

Long Live Collegeville!

Reviews At Random

by Charles Faucher

The intellectual roadhouse that fostered Jack Kerouac's On the Road is an odd one. It reeks of dark broodings, sensuality, animalistic drives. A web of mad inconclusive action is spun, bearing its entangled occupants to identity with the animal they were meant by nature to surpass.

The frenetic 'god' of this, we hope, disjointed segment of American culture is the quintessence of uncontrolled, unordered, emotional and pseudo-intellectual emanation, Dean Moriarty.

His mental processes are transferred spontaneously to physical action; as a consequence there is no stability; he is a wisp, carried, bent, blown; clay in the hands of his environment. The entire tone of the book may be authentically gathered from this man's shifting mental sands.

What was the chemistry of this 'prophet'? This insane child-cry in the gloom.

Moriarty insists that his is the search for reality, the kind of which he fails to mention. His Grail is truth; and his methodology, as is apparent from the above, is the immediate translation of conceptual to physical action. His purpose is to grind out of his existence the kicks that it may yield.

The throb of the engine is his claim to this ideal; the drumming, ceaseless drumming of rubber on concrete crisscrossing and webbing the land. His roads to truth are rock and steel, dirt; his pace is rapid and his morality rock bottomed.

Only once is this insane veil lifted: he dips into Mexico on one of his last hejiras, and in the highlands toward Mexico City he glimpses stability and for a fleeting instant is dumbfounded, the illusion being quickly banished. He finds an "... ancient regularity laboring beneath the sun," but dismisses it as trickery.

In this island amid his turbulent sea he exposed to what might a fountainhead of strength to him and his breed, human existence in the raw, devoid of civilized accidentals; most fundamental, almost primeval and aboriginal. But this other-world is forgotten. Life must stretch out for him in an alien manner; his mad odyssey knows no other path.

This is the credo of the popularized "beat generation"; these are the men who shun the old order and shall build for us utopias; shall give meaningness to the idea of man as a social and rational creature. Yet they wander in the deepening gloom of their dreary cosmos, declare man a monster, sentence him to a dead death. It is a sad world, isn't it?

What Do You Think?

by Jim St. Amour

The federal government now has a plan whereby students who cannot afford a college education may borrow up to $1000 a year to help meet expenses. Do you think this plan will encourage more students to seek a college education, or do you feel that the prospect of graduating with a debt of from $4000 to $5000 will discourage students from seeking federal aid?

Sam Rosso, sophomore, Lorain, O.
I feel that this plan will encourage more students to seek a college education. A lot of good students in high school cannot go to college because they do not have the money.

In most cases a person who graduates from college will make more money than a person who does not have a degree.

Therefore, a person who takes advantage of this plan will have the benefit of a college education and will be able to repay his debt to the government in a few years.

John M. Tatro, sophomore, Martinton, Ill.

If the individual felt he could take the strain of the debt he could probably find a way to get the loan. However, I do not feel that most individuals would want to undertake the responsibility of paying off a $4000 to $5000 loan.

Ronald Metter, senior, Mt. Clemens, Mich.

I feel that this plan should encourage more students to seek an education beyond the high school level. The fact that the student will graduate with such a large debt will be a hardship for that student, but I think that the satisfaction a person receives by getting a college education will serve to lessen the burden.

Then too, with a degree the person should not have too much trouble paying off his debt. If the student realizes what he is in school for, and applies himself well, he will be able to get a job which will give him the material means to pay back the money which he borrowed.

Birk Fischer, sophomore, Evansville, Ind.

If this plan goes into action a great many potential college students would certainly take advantage of it. However, the number may not be enough to make such a step worth while, since the debt accumulated would normally be to much for a person just graduating unless he had an immediate prospect for a good job.

If the terms of the loan are not beyond the means of the average person just starting out, the plan will bring immediate and excellent results.

Raymond Kuzniar, senior, Chicago, Ill.

This student aid program given by the federal government will be beneficial to the intelligent, unwealthy student. It will encourage these needy students to seek new horizons.

I certainly think that these students would scrupulously pay the debt back to the government.

R. Milo Gallivan, sophomore, Chicago, Ill.

As a future chemist, I wholeheartedly agree with this plan. Taking my own case, for example, if I didn't have the necessary funds to continue in college, I would certainly obtain a federal loan so that I could reach my goal as a master chemist.

While reaping the benefit of a college education I would also be preparing to better myself financially in the future, which would enable me to pay off the loan.

Glenn Dobecki, freshman, South Bend, Ind.

Whether college students will have a debt of $4000 or not after they graduate, I feel many will try to obtain the federal help regardless. The plan will undoubtedly bring people, who are capable of doing good work, into college but cannot attend because of financial reasons.

Also by being able to borrow this money prospective students will have a better opportunity to go to the school they prefer instead of one they can only afford. With the good paying jobs they undoubtedly procure after college, the men will be able to make up for their debts.

I think that this plan of government aid would encourage a college education. The debt accumulated over the four years is just a small sum compared to the extra earnings of a college graduate and that of the high school graduate.

Excellent Program Of Concert Trips

Dear Editor:

Your Staff columnist of "What Do You Think?" certainly chose an excellent topic for the first issue! (The subject matter was concerned with organizing and attending musicals, theatrical productions, and lectures.)

I was and still am very much interested in these types of programs. Last year with the very capable assistance of Mr. Qubeck and Mr. Kilmer, I set up and ran two trips to Purdue university.

We attended "No Time For Sergeants" and a performance by the Glenn Miller Orchestra under the direction of Ray McKinley. It was the former show that Joseph Clune mentioned in your column as attending—he was one of the members of the first trip.

Now you're going to ask, "What are you planning for this year?" The programs are excellent and the tentative schedule is as follows:

"Mister Roberts" on Oct. 16, "Aunt Mame" with the Broadway Cast on Dec. 1 and 2, "Death of a Salesman" on Dec. 13, "Guys and Dolls" during the middle of February, and "Hamlet" during the middle of April.

I just completed filling the bus for "Mister Roberts." On each trip I take 35 students. We leave St. Joe at 6:15 p.m. and return before midnight. All seats are reserved at these events and are sold to students on a first come—first served basis.

Many thanks for showing interest in this subject and I'll do my best to show St. Joe students a good concert season.

Sincerely,

Jim Hagearty

Between The Lines

by Greg Mahoney

(This summer, while the U.S. Marines were touring Lebanon and the "Nautilus" was cruising under the north pole, Stuff's distinguished editor, Jerry Bosch, was roaming through the capitals of western Europe. One of the countries he visited was Franco's Spain, where he stayed for three weeks. Through the courtesy of Senor Bosch, we now present the first report from Stuff's foreign office.)

Spain in 1958 is a rarity in world politics—a dictatorship that allows—and even encourages—freedom of religion and a free enterprise system. "The people do not look on Franco as a dictator as such; they consider him more as an absolutist," comments observer Bosch. Nevertheless, the authoritarian hand is always present in civil life. Everyone must carry an ID card which at any time is subject to inspection by the authorities.

Newspapers exist only by the will of the State which sets down the paper's rules and policies. Spanish papers devote only limited space to international affairs and all news is covered with a blanket of government censorship. Once a month, government police investigate the books, employees and operations of each individual paper.

Franco's particular totalitarianism is the most violent anti-Communist government of all the NATO countries. In its Civil War of the '30s Spain became the first nation to actively resist an internal Communist revolution. Tight passport regulations which prevent Red sympathizers from entering the country and an efficient Security Police have blocked the establishment of a large Communist Party in Spain. "If there are 10 important Communists in Spain, it would be news to Franco," remarks Jerry.

The social tradition that governs the dating and marriage practices of young Spanish couples is possibly the most rigid in the world. In Seville, our touring editor met a young Spaniard, 24, who, for some time, had been engaged to a local lovely. Her parents, however, had laid down "ground rules" which allowed the couple to date only from 6-8 on weeknights. In addition, the boy had a 10 p.m. curfew imposed on him by his father.

One black night, he came home five minutes after that hour and found his front door bolted shut. In response to the lad's frantic pounding, the angry father finally opened the door, scowled at his tardy son, slapped him across the face, and sent him to his room to repent of his sin.

Because a car is usually too expensive for the average Spanish youngster, he relies on a motor scooter or motorcycle for date transportation. (The girls ride sidesaddle.) A typical date night will find the couple going to the neighborhood movie, or a dance in the parish church or town square. Most couples are content to take an old-fashioned hand-in-hand walk or to have a quiet dinner in one of the sidewalk cafes that are so much a part of Spain.

It is a rare—and courageous—Spaniard who marries younger than 25, and when he does marry, he must first bargain with his future father-in-law for the hand of the girl. After the daughter has accepted his proposal, the young man must go to the father and ask the old guy how many pesetas (42 equal one American dollar) he wants to allow his daughter to be married. Spain is full of mercenary fathers and impoverished bridegrooms.

Parental authority is highly respected. There is no secret dating or elopements. This respect also is responsible for the low rate of juvenile delinquency in Spain.

It is a fortunate student who has the opportunity of attending a university in Spain. As there is no set scholarship or student aid program, the majority of college men are from wealthy families. The average undergraduate is better versed in the fine arts, rhetoric and languages than his American counterpart. The universities have accelerated their programs to turn out the engineers and architects that are essential to the growth of modern Spain.

The American tourist is a welcome guest in Spain. No visa is required for American travellers, and the prices, compared to U.S. standards, are ridiculously reasonable.

M. James T. Farrell of the English department welcomes Dr. Roy Battenhouse before his lecture last week on the St. Joe campus. Fr. Alvin Druhan, chairman of the department, looks on.

Battenhouse Lecture Offers Hints of "The Bard's" Faith

by Jim McCullough

A small group of about 45 people, mostly faculty members, gathered in Merlini lounge Oct. 1 to hear the first of a new annual lecture series at St. Joseph college. The speaker was Dr. Roy W. Battenhouse, who spoke on "Catholic Theology and Shakespearean Criticism."

The reasons for such a small turn-out might be a lack of intellectuals on the campus, or the dearth of student interest in a rather narrow subject.

Religion and the Bard

The one to two per cent of the student body that did attend were probably genuinely interested because St. Joseph instructors were asked not to force any of their classes to attend. Thus a captive audience, even though larger, was avoided.

Dr. Battenhouse discussed a question that has long intrigued scholars—to what religious sect, if any, did the bard belong. Roman Catholics, Protestants, and even Puritans have claimed Shakespeare as their own.

Examines Two Plays

Dr. Battenhouse first took to task Catholic scholars who try to prove Shakespeare's Catholicism with arguments like this: The few friars in his plays are sympathetically treated; the few parsons are slightly ridiculed.

The lecturer insisted upon a much broader outlook, that of examining the whole substance of a Shakespearean play. He cited Measure for Measure and King John specifically as plays which reveal a Catholic outlook on the part of the author.

Catholic Outlook Though

Both works were adapted from earlier Protestant plays, and from both Shakespeare expurgated Protestant propaganda. The source

it is that you cannot prove one way or another just what religion Shakespeare practiced. However, his plays show a definite Catholic outlook suggesting that Shakespeare was a Catholic, "not of an age, but for all time."

Expert in His Field

The lecture ended in a short question and answer period.

Most of the students present were somewhat awed by the speaker's erudition. Some disapproved his reading of the whole lecture; others felt he talked too far over their heads.

Whatever impression they received, they were brought into contact with an expert in his field. The remaining lectures of the series, in presenting scholars from three different fields, will have the same aim.

For example, our nomadic editor rode on a Barcelona streetcar for 1½ cents and ate a dinner of steak, a bottle of wine, Spanish rice and ice cream for 75 cents.

Any further comments on Spain, Mr. Editor? "Railroads in Spain are worse than the Monon. You buy a ticket, and then you can't even ride the trains. At one time, I had to stand in line almost three hours to buy a reserved seat train ticket."

"Good Evening," he said. "Hello yourself," she said, giving him the smile used for small children, cute dogs, cab drivers, and doormen.

"Would you care to dance?" he said. "Sure!" she said, warming the smile up a notch to the third cousin, waiter, friends parents, and not-quite-introduced-boys variety.

"Band's good!" he said, as they threaded their way to the dance floor, jostling four couples in the process. "Mmmmm" she said, as she glided into his arms with a my what a clever remark smile. "By the way, my name is Mary, Mary Jones, What is yours?" "Ah-Leroy Loman" he said. "I'm from Chicago, South Side. How about yourself?"

"Oh, I don't live anywhere around here," she replied, "I live far, far away."

With that, the music stopped, the girl walked away, the guy went to his buddies along the wall, and another Mixer Romance was stopped before it began.

"They put in new boxes and new linoleum, but they still don't put in my mail," seems to be the thoughts of seniors Terry Bergin and Pete Warner.

Enlargement Program Modernizes Post Office

by Jerry Mauch

As close to 1000 St. Joe men took up quarters on campus for the '58-'59 school year, one thing was apparent immediately. The post office, second only to the cafeteria in popularity, was being enlarged and remodeled. No longer would Pumas have to fight their way through that eager mob of letter-hungry college men to check those all-important post office boxes or to mail a letter to the girl they met at the last mixer.

In taking on its new look, the Collegeville post office began last spring by being changed to an official branch of the government post office at Rensselaer. As a result, the government leased the building and it began operations under branch superintendent Robert Brown.

New Boxes Cost $9000

During the summer the enlargement program began with tearing out the office of Mr. Hugh Cowdin and the News Bureau, which was moved upstairs in the publications building. This space was taken over by the post office.

Before any more moves could be made, students began returning to school, so it was decided to assign temporary boxes until the job could be completed.

Two weeks ago the government began moving in new combination-lock boxes to be set up at a cost of $9,000. Then the big job began. In place of the old window-style counter on the west end of the room, a longer, modern counter was set up in the south-east portion.

Speedier Service Now

In the north end of the room, the 709 old boxes were taken out and 944 new boxes were set up further back to provide more walking space. About 750 of these boxes have been allocated for student use, the remainder being used by the faculty and the offices.

When completed, the project will provide more room for all concerned, the students, the faculty, and the employees of the post office. Branch superintendent Brown and his assistant, Gerald Rishling, feel that they will definitely be able to give better and speedier service in the modernized set-up, even though the St. Joe post office handles a greater load of mail than the average city of 1000.

Brown also announced a slight change in the mail pick-ups during the day. Letters and packages will now be picked up at 8:45, 3:00, and 4:45. This means that anyone wishing to have a letter go out at one of these times must have it the post office at least a half hour before the pick-up, so that it may be routed out in time.

North End Open Always

Any incoming mail will be delivered at these times. On Saturdays, two deliveries will be made, but on holidays only one will be made with none being made on Sundays.

Post office hours are from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., closing for lunch from 11:30 to 12:30. On Saturdays it will close at noon and on Sundays and Holidays it will be closed all day. Even though the post office itself is closed, the north end, where the boxes are located, will always be open so that the boxes may be inspected by visitors and letter-hungry Pumas.

On The Campus

Men and Issues

by Pat Lavery and Tom Page

Question: What are your duties as Athletic Director of St. Joseph's college?

Fr. Baird: There are many functions that the Athletic Director performs. Let's just say that the Athletic Director is the administrative officer of the athletic department.

Question: Do you feel that sports are beneficial to the school?

Fr. Baird: Very definitely. Sports are extremely beneficial to the student body. This includes IM sports as well as Varsity sports. All sport activities help to increase social life at St. Joe.

Question: Are the three losses that the football team suffered indicative of any deemphasis in football?

Fr. Baird: No. St. Joe has a number of sophomores on the team this year. They are bound to be a bit nervous at the start and hence make a few mistakes. I am confident, though, that they will develop into one of our better teams.

Question: Do you feel that Coach Jauron has done a good job?

Fr. Baird: Coach Jauron has done a very good job. There are few, if any, coaches in the country who know as much about football as Mr. Jauron.

Question: What is the general attitude of the team?

Fr. Baird: They want to win. Their spirit of cooperation is good. These boys really earn their scholarships.

Question: Will the number of football scholarships be increased?

Fr. Baird: The administration has given every evidence of full support of the athletic program and I am sure that at such time when more aid is both necessary and possible, it will be given.

Question: What are the future possibilities of the St. Joe football team?

Fr. Baird: There is hope for going ahead. St. Joe in recent years has had some great teams and we may have even greater teams in the future. We are currently trying to schedule games with some of the best known teams in the country. Our future success depends to a large extent on how much the students back the team. The team needs the support of the whole student body.

St. Joseph's Sponsors Book Club

The Hidden Persuaders, by Vance Packard, has been chosen as the first book offered by the paper back Book-of-the-Month club, sponsored by the Department of Instruction of St. Joseph college.

Membership in the club, which is open to the faculty, staff and students of the college, along with citizens and students of the adjoining community, has been set on a very informal and inexpensive basis. Members are asked simply to read the book recommended for each month by the appointed educators, which will be available at the college bookstore or at neighborhood agencies.

Low Cost Library

A discussion of these books will be held once a month at Raleigh hall, on the college campus, for those interested in attending. Free coffee will be served at these meetings.

The college is sponsoring this project in order to improve members' knowledge of current affairs by the reading of good, low-priced books; to develop members' reading habits; and to help them build up their own library at a very low cost. The college hopes to promote worthwhile reading in this manner.

Divisions Choose Books

A total of seven books will be announced each month in Stuff for the months of October through May. The October paper back was chosen by the Division of Business and Economics, while for November the Division of Education will be making the choice.

Only one book is to be selected for the months of December and January, this selection being made by the Division of Humanities. The Division of Natural Sciences is to choose the book for February with the March edition being chosen by the Divisions of Religion and Philosophy.

Information From Dean

The April edition will be selected by the Division of Social Sciences. A last selection for the year will be made for May by Gamma Delta, the campus chapter of Delta Epsilon Sigma, the National Catholic Honor Society.

Further information on this club may be obtained at the office of the academic dean of the college.

Summer Study

fessor of accounting, took courses at Arizona State college at Tempe, Ariz., and Fr. Ernest Ranly attended the summer session at the University of Chicago.

Two other St. Joe professors, Frs. Aloys Feldhaus and Joseph Scheuer, taught at schools in Milwaukee and New York respectively. Fr. Feldhaus was at the motherhouse of the School Sisters of Notre Dame and Fr. Scheuer was at Fordham university.

Fr. Urban Seigrist, associate professor of biology, worked on his Ph.D. degree last summer, and on Sept. 9, 1958 received the degree in ceremonies at the Institutum Divi Thomae in Cincinnati, O.

Fr. Heiman Still in Rome

Two other professors of biology did research work this past summer. Fr. Lawrence Kroeckel, chairman of the Division of the Natural Sciences, was at the Marine Biological Laboratory in Massachusetts.

Dr. Jay Barton completed an assignment as a resident research associate in the Biological and Medical Research Division of the Argonne National Laboratory, Lemont, Ill.

Fr. William Kramer of the chemistry department traveled in Europe, as did Fr. Lawrence Heiman, former Glee club director. Fr. Heiman was absent on leave during the 1957-58 school year to study music in Rome, and after his travels during the summer he returned to Rome to continue his studies.

Almost 450 St. Joe parents attended the annual President's reception for the Parents club held on the campus, Sept. 28. The Glee club, Columbian players and the SJ combo, "The Upper Classmen," entertained parents and sons.

College Placement Bureau Schedules Job Interviews

by Ed McGee

The Placement Bureau has scheduled a series of job interviews for seniors with representatives from 13 organizations who will be at the college on the following dates: Crawford and Crawford, Nov. 6; the Army Audit Agency, Nov. 14; the Internal Revenue Department, Dec. 9; United States Rubber, Jan. 13; Sears Roebuck, Feb. 19; United States General Accounting office, Mar. 4; Lincoln National Life Insurance, Mar. 5; Inter-Chemical Agency, Mar. 11; and the Army Audit Agency again on Mar. 23.

Interviews will also be available with representatives of Inland Steel, Brach's Candy, Montgomery Ward and W. T. Grant as soon as the dates are determined. These organizations hired 16 members of last year's graduating class.

Possible 9000 Openings

All seniors interested in obtaining an interview with any of these companies should contact Mr. Richard Scharf, director of the Placement Bureau, as soon as possible.

According to Mr. Scharf, college placement had a difficult time last year because of a business recession and a cutback in employment. In the Midwest there were 14,000 anticipated openings but actual hires were only 8,700. This year the anticipation is 9,000 with the emphasis on a finer selection of college graduates.

Salary Ranges High

St. Joseph's Placement Bureau, despite the recession, placed 15 out of 17 in the field of education, while 21 out of 55 received places in the business field. Of the ones who were not actually placed, some went into service, some went to graduate school and others may have received positions but did not report.

The high salary for those placed in the education field was $5200 with a low of $3110 and a median of $4100. In the business the high was $470 per month and the low was $325 per month with a median of $411.

Reference Record

The College Placement Bureau has definite functions to perform. First of all, it serves as a repository where students or alumni may file for permanent record a composite of their scholastic preparation, references and extra-curricular interests.

The Bureau also makes a complete record of opportunities reported by various business and schedules interviews with those who are interested in securing college graduates.

Early Interviews Best

Finally, this college service supplies registrants' credentials upon the request of the employing agency or the applicant, and functions as a bureau for counseling and guidance relative to placement.

This bureau is a great aid for graduates seeking employment. Dates and times for personal interviews should be set as soon as possible in order to take advantage of current job opportunities.

Library Moves Fiction Section

In order to make room for the 2500 to 3500 new books which are purchased each year, Fr. Charles Banet, college librarian, has moved many of the old non-circulating books to a new section, called the annex, on the lower floor. These will be found on the shelves marked W-10, 11, 12 and 13.

Also moved to the basement is the entire fiction section, which can now be found on shelves marked W-6, 7, 8 and 9. "Since it was a question of either splitting the fiction section or moving the complete section down to the basement to make way for new books, the latter method was chosen by the staff," Fr. Banet commented.

These moves were made necessary because the library, which contains approximately 125,000 volumes, was becoming extremely crowded in the upper stacks, which hold about 26,000 books, mostly of a departmental nature.

This type of book comprises about 80 per cent of the library budget, while recreation, general reference and fiction make up a large portion of the remaining 20 per cent.

Moving these books downstairs consisted not only in physically handling them, but also pulling out their cards and stamping them with the new location.

By 1960, the library hopes to take over the old dormitory study hall, where a humanities section will be set up, including all volumes on art, music and literature.

Miss Witt Assumes New Library Post

Beginning with the opening of the school year, Miss Margaret Witte, of Harbert, Mich., has taken over as circulation reference librarian in the Collegeville library.

Miss Witte, who received a bachelor of arts degree from Rosary college in 1951, served as a substitute teacher in the Chicago primary schools until June, 1954, when she went to California to work at the Naval Ordnance Training Station, at China Beach. She stayed there from January, 1954 to September, 1956, after which she went to work in the main library at Notre Dame university.

The following year she entered graduate study at the University of Michigan from where she came to St. Joe.

Butler Victory Bursts SJ Championship Balloon

A last quarter touchdown by Butler's Bulldogs Saturday, Oct. 4, virtually shattered any Puma ambitions for a fourth consecutive ICC conference championship as Coach Tony Hinkle's eleven handed the Joemen their first conference defeat since October, 1955—a winning streak of 13.

Butler broke open the tough midfield battle when they began a 76 yard touchdown march with 13 minutes remaining in the game. Led by their outstanding junior fullback, Kent Stewart, who picked up 52 of the 76 yards in the drive, the Bulldogs maneuvered the distance in 10 plays, with Stewart blasting through guard for the score with 9:26 left to play. An attempt place kick for the extra point failed.

Only One Puma Threat

Although the Joemen were in Butler territory eight times, the Pumas threatened seriously only once. Taking a punt early in the second quarter on their own 26, St. Joseph's, paced by sophomore fullback John DiBuono, marched down to the Butler nine, where Klein attempted a flat pass to Williams on fourth down and five to go for a first down. The pass was successful, but Williams missed the first down by one as he picked up only four yards down to the five.

With the exception of this threat, the Pumas advanced only as far as the Butler 36 all afternoon. With the exception of their touchdown march, the Bulldogs got past the 50 yard line only twice, and only as far as the Pumas' 29.

Stewart Gains 98 Yards

Butler also had the better of the statistics. Both teams concentrated on their ground games with Klein throwing only six passes for the Pumas and completing two, and Bulldog quarterback John Moses throwing 10 for Butler and completing five.

With Stewart pacing the ground attack with 98 yards in 19 carries, the Bulldogs averaged 4.7 yards per rush while the Pumas, who found it difficult to turn the Butler ends, managed only two yards per crack. With starting fullback Mike Murphy sidelined early in the first quarter with a head injury, DiBuono paced the Pumas' offensive with 62 yards in 17 tries, a 3.7 average, followed by Williams with 53 yards in 14 tries.

Varsity Views

by Tom Donahue

The loss to the Butler Bulldogs last Saturday was the first conference defeat for the Pumas since 1955. The way some of the student body has reacted to it one would think that the impossible has happened. St. Joe just couldn't lose. They didn't lose because they wanted to lose, that I know. If I sound like a broken record shut me off, but you can't expect 11 good men to go at top speed for 60 minutes. They're going to tire. That means you must substitute. We have some good sophomores on that squad and they are gaining the needed experience every game. But Saturday they were up against a veteran team that was two deep in every position. There's no disgrace in losing 6-0 to a team like that.

One loss doesn't knock us out of the race for the conference championship. It looks as if the whole conference is stronger this year. DePauw, whom we defeated 32-0 isn't a bad team. Valpo is stronger and so is Evansville. Anyone of these teams could knock over Butler.

Let's see what happens as the season progresses.

There's a lot of talk on campus about the morale of the student body this year. I don't think it's really too bad at this stage, but there's always the chance that it will slip. If it does it might prove disastrous. It's easy to yell and scream for a winner but the test comes when your team drops a few. Actually it shouldn't make that much difference.

If you're for a team you back them whether they win, lose, or draw. We've dropped a few this year and I was kind of glad because I didn't hear the complaining that I thought I would. I don't think that's a sign that you don't care. I think it's a sign that your heart is still in the right place. Let's hope it stays there.

Joemen To Face Indiana State In '58 Homecoming Encounter

by Jim Quinn

St. Joseph's Pumas will be idle next Saturday, Oct. 11 as they gird themselves for a Homecoming encounter with the Sycamores of Indiana State the following Saturday, Oct. 18. The Joemen will be out to better their current 1-1 record in ICC competition.

In Indiana State, the Pumas will face a team which has not won an ICC conference game since November, 1955 when they beat the De Pauw Tigers. State has dropped their first three games this season, losing to Eastern Illinois 32-8, Evansville 21-6 and DePauw 16-14.

All-Stater At Half

Coach Bill Jones, who is in his second year as Sycamore mentor, has built his team around 12 returning lettermen and some promising sophomores.

The Sycamores should be strong in the backfield with the return of lettermen in quarterback Tad Morlock and fullback Jim Waugh, the team's leading rusher and the best punter in the ICC last year.

Pumas Top State in '58

Jay Barret, who in 1956 was the leading rusher, will take over one halfback position, while Larry Sweatt, an all-state halfback at Terre Haute Riley, moves into the other halfback slot.

In the line, Jones can count on ends Wally Webb, Bob Belcher and Tom Helmich; tackles Emmett Stimac, who was a starter last year, Gene Wilson and Ed Rusk; guard Claude Sanders and center John Clements.

In the game with Indiana State last year, the Pumas buried the Sycamores 42-0. It was St. Joe's fourth win in a row over State.

Important

This coming week is the last chance for seniors to begin their series of polio shots at the Health Center so that they can complete them before graduation. Underclassmen are also urged to begin their shots in order to be ready for next summer. Shots given on campus are approximately nine dollars cheaper than off campus.

Pumas Whip DePauw For First Victory of '58

St. Joseph's Pumas registered their first victory of the season Saturday, Sept. 27, by whipping the DePauw Tigers, 32-8, in the ICC opener on the St. Joe field.

Sputting to a first quarter touchdown, the Pumas, led by quarterback Les Klein, sophomore halfbacks Larry Williams and George Connelly, and veteran fullback Mike Murphy, moved 62 yards in 16 plays.

SJ Scores Each Period

Klein, moved over from halfback and playing his first collegiate game at quarterback, clicked with end Ray Regner on a 20 yard pass play. Williams, who averaged 7.6 yards per play in 10 carries, skirted end for the extra two points.

The Pumas, who methodically scored in every period and built up a 32-0 lead before DePauw escaped a shutout, ground out 42 yards in 10 plays in the second quarter, with Murphy going over for the score from three yards out. Klein's pass for the extra point failed.

Regner Nails Punter

Murphy scored again in the third quarter on a one-yard plunge for his second tally of the game after the Pumas had driven 33 yards in eight plays following an intercepted pass by tackle Ken Bates in Tiger territory. Klein ran the conversion across for two more points.

The Joemen increased their margin to 20-0 in the fourth period when a bad pass from center sailed over the DePauw punter's head into the end zone where the Tiger was nailed by Regner.

Murphy Gains 94 Yards

Moments later the Pumas chalked up their final score on a 53 yard drive in eight plays, with Connelly running over from the four. Connelly also scored the two extra points on a pass from sophomore quarterback Mike McGovern.

DePauw broke the ice late in the game against the Puma third string on a 51 yard pass play from quarterback Jim DeArmand to halfback Jan Merder. Halfback Dave Clifford ran the two extra points.

Murphy, finding soft spots in the middle of the Tiger line, was the workhorse for the Joemen with 94 yards in 25 carries. In addition to Williams' 76 yards in 10 tries, Connelly also carried 10 times for 35 yards and Klein picked up 31 yards in 10 tries, while connecting on three of six passes for 41 yards, including the touchdown heave in the first quarter.

Intramurals

by Mike Goldrick

The opening games of the touch football season have been completed and only three teams are undefeated. All three teams are in the upper class league. The Halas Horsemen have swept to three straight wins, a 33-6 win over the Gallagher Lollys, a 14-6 victory over the Washburn Lovers, and a 12-0 win over the Halas Black Bears. In second place a half game off the pace are the Gallagher Guzzlers and the Bennett 7-7's, with two wins in two starts. The Guzzlers trounced the Noll Dozers 27-0, and edged the Halas Brown Bears 7-0. The 7-7's opened with a 44-0 win over the Washburn Lovers, and then dropped the Bennett Slickers 14-0.

In the frosh league things are pretty tight. There is a seven way tie for first, each team sporting identical 2-1 records. The teams tied are: from Drexel, the Counts and the Bums, from Merlini, the Puma Kittens, the Playboys, and the Crusaders, also the West Seifert Knights, and the East Seifert Hoosiers.

Club News

The Vets club has selected Mr. Robert Shemky as its club moderator. Originally the Vets had selected Mr. Richard Kilmer, but due to many previous commitments and activities, Mr. Kilmer regretfully declined the offer.

The Vets also have answered an emergency plea for blood donors. Six members, led by president Mark Doorley, have volunteered to stand by at Indianapolis Medical Center later this month. The plea came from the local Welfare Board and the blood will aid a six-year old girl from neighboring Newton Township.

The Gun club of St. Joseph's college will hold a rifle-pistol match on Saturday, Oct. 11, at 1 p.m. at the target range, west of Scharf house. The match is for club members only. Club membership is closed for the first semester of the 1958-59 school year.

The club, which boasts the highest membership of its history this semester, also plans to have movies on shooting, fishing, etc., at its meetings of Oct. 23, Nov. 15, Dec. 2, and Jan. 8.

Floyd Winner is president of the club with Tom Geary as vice-president and Dan Talbot as secretary. Jim Hagearty, a professional National Rifle Association certified rifle and pistol instructor, is club instructor, Brother John Marling is club moderator.

The club renewed its NRA charter for this year, thus making all club members automatic NRA members.

The Glee club has scheduled a performance of the traditional Christmas opera of Gian Carlo Menotti, "Amahl and the Night Visitors" for Saturday, Dec. 13. The Girl's Chorale of St. Francis college, Joliet, Ill. will assist the Glee club in the presentation of the opera.

The club also has announced the members of the "Singing Seventeen" for the first semester. They are: Frank Rastigue, Jack Tatrow, Ray Edwards, Ray Elenteny, Dick Courtney, Don Regan, Tom Lewis, Tim Sullivan, John Kiefer, Jim Deegan, Henry Schmidt, Ed Knight, Bill McCormick, Ken Brand, Ed Mandeville and John Christen.

The Motor City club is now laying plans for dances during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. A ride bureau is also being set up to accommodate students of the Michigan area.

Frank Rastigue, Dave Kafka and Roger Thomas are officers of the club. Fr. Kostka is faculty moderator of the club.
